Dear

Congratulations on your achievement and your admission to the Faculty of Applied Sciences at Simon Fraser University! As you make your final decision of where to attend university, I encourage you to explore the opportunities available to you in our Faculty.

Build an interdisciplinary skillset. Graduate with more than programming or engineering skills. Combine your studies with areas such as biology, economics, entrepreneurship, or political science, to approach technical problems from multiple perspectives.

Gain real-world experience. Explore your career paths with paid internship opportunities that complement your academic studies and provide practical, hands-on experience.

Train with internationally-renowned experts. Learn from top researchers who have worked in academia and industry, are making ground-breaking discoveries, and are ready to prepare you to become a global leader in your field. These are connections that will last well beyond graduation.

Take your skills to the road, air, or into space. Join one of our student teams that are building a zero-emissions race car, transforming unmanned aerial vehicles, or getting ready to launch a satellite into space. Or better yet, form your own team and put your skills into action for social change.

It's an exciting time for the Faculty of Applied Sciences on both our Burnaby and Surrey campuses as we expand our accredited engineering options and further extend our international reputation in computer science research. We are shaping tomorrow's leaders in computing and engineering, and we hope you will join us to be one of them. I look forward to meeting you and wish you every success as you pursue post-secondary studies.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Eugene Fiume
